

Natur²

The background of the entire image is filled with a dense, overlapping cluster of Dahlias in shades of pink, red, and magenta. The flowers are of various sizes and types, some fully bloomed with many petals, while others are still tight buds. The colors range from deep maroon at the edges to bright pink in the centers, with some flowers showing a distinct bicolor or variegated pattern. The green stems and leaves are visible throughout, creating a lush, textured appearance.

Upgraded
Pinkers

February